As you know we have undergone a huge change in manager personnel during the last few months. This means that the divisions may need to be adjusted to allow for the maximum amount of head to head games to be played. I believe that this is the way to go as it makes the league stronger and helps to build life long friendships. So we need to look at both leagues and determine exactly how we need to realign.. Then maybe you may disagree with me on this issue as it tends to disrupt the progression of power within the divisions. At any rate, start thinking about what direction you want to go as this issue will need to be resolved at the next rookie draft.

Next, we need to finally decide about making the computer manager mandatory for all road games. Now this means going completely paperless as all stats, profiles, boxscores, and scoresheets can be sent back and forth on a single diskette. To me, there is nothing more frustrating than having to input an extensive manager profile from paper that the computer printed out. If we need to educate people on how to do this than so be it. Failing to use the full capabilities of the computer manger is like having someone push your car while you ride in the driver's seat. Let's make it mandatory to use disk formats to send and receive all appropriate road data.
